Third grave uncovered in Louisiana

Revelation of kidnap-murders triggers anxious inquiries

By DAN BARBER and CAROLE LANGE
Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Carr said Friday the revelation of three graves in Hancock County and Louisiana's St. James Parish this week had prompted a rash of inquiries from law enforcement officials across the country.

"Most," Ladner said, "were information about confessed killer Robert Frederick Carr III on other missing juvenile cases, but there has been no indication as yet, Ladner added, that Carr is involved in more than one kidnap-slaying.

Thursday, Carr, 32, of Norwich, Conn., led Dade County and St. James Parish authorities to a third grave in Grammercy, La., containing the remains of 12-year-old Todd Payton of Miami, Fla. Earlier this week, Hancock County sheriff officers, accompanied by Carr, unearthed two other graves containing the remains of victims Mark Wilson, 11, companion of Todd who was picked up with him near their North Miami Beach, Fla., homes
Nov. 13, 1972, and of 16-year-old Tammy Ruth Huntley of Miami.

Wilson's grave was exhumed Tuesday at the junction of state highways 604 and 607 near Pearllington, Miss., by Hancock County and Florida
officials after Carr led them to the site.

One day earlier, Carr led authorities to an area known as Devil's Swamp in the same locale where the body of Tammy was found. Officers say she was picked up as a hitchhiker in Miami and brought to the Mississippi Gulf Coast where she was kept for about 10 days before being killed April 7.

Ladner said Carr, who committed at least two of the murders while out on parole from a rape conviction in Waterford, Conn., had flown to his home state today to lead authorities to yet another grave.

Carr, married and the father of two children, was brought to the attention of Hancock officials after he confessed the murders to Dade County, Florida authorities. He had been arrested there May 31 in connection with four kidnaprapes of juveniles.

Although Carr allegedly told Dade

County authorities he sexually assaulted all of his victims, Carr Monday denied sexually molesting the two boys.

"He told me he picked the kids up hitchhiking, then held them prisoner and later killed them," Sheriff Ladner said Friday.

Ladner said Carr admitted killing Payton "because he couldn't stand him and he (Payton) had pulled a knife on him." He confessed to killing the girl "because she was despondent and wanted to go home," but he would offer no reason for Wilson's death, Ladner said.

By his own admission, Carr and Miss Huntley had lived in Hancock County about 10 days prior to her death.

He recounted seeing several persons during his brief stay here, and one of these, Earl Fayard Jr., 28, Kiln, was able to identify Carr from police photos as the man he had seen while turkey hunting in Devil's Swamp.

Fayard said he saw the couple during the first part of April and helped pull Carr's vehicle out of the bog.

Fayard told reporters he assumed that the girl was Carr's wife "because she kept calling him honey and baby."
He said she did not appear frightened or nervous.

Commenting on Carr's "terrific memory," Ladner said his description of Fayard "fit him to a 'T'." He said Carr also told him that he had seen a young man in his 20's with long blond hair driving a lime green pick-up truck and an elderly man in his 80's with a long handlebar moustache. Carr said he saw the second man while in a grocery store "somewhere on the highway."

INVESTIGATORS SIFT REMAINS of 11-year-old Mark Wilson of North Miami Beach, Fla., whose grave was unearthed Tuesday in Hancock County. Wilson was one of four victims, all children, kidnapped and murdered by Robert F. Carr III, two in Hancock County.

ROBERT F. CARR III, who has confessed to murdering four children and burying three of the bodies in Louisiana and Mississippi, aided authorities Tuesday in digging for the body of 11-year-old Mark Wilson of North Miami Beach, Fla. Another body, that of 16-year-old Tammy Ruth Huntley, also of Miami, was uncovered Monday in an area of the county known as Devil's Swamp.

Flag Day to be observed Monday

All citizens are urged to display their American flags on Flag Day, Monday,
June 14.

Flag Day was first officially observed in 1877 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the selection of the flag.
The Continental Congress adopted the Stars and Stripes as the official flag of the United States in 1777.

Although Flag Day is not an official national holiday, each year the President proclaims a public observation.

Pennsylvania went further and made Flag Day a legal holiday.

Rosedown summer garden bursts into full bloom

ST. FRANCISVILLE, LA. Abundant rainfall has given the flowering trees, shrubs and flowers of Rosedown's summer garden one of its most showy seasons, according to R. O. Butler, general manager of the restored 19th century plantation empire in West Feliciana Parish, Louisiana.

Summertime always brings into bloom some of the most interesting plants on the grounds of Rosedown, including hundreds of red and white hydrangeas along the oak avenue and garden paths, giant gardenia shrubs, many varieties of roses, and the red and soft pink of the hydrangeas, and the lush and varied green of the cryptomeria, camellias and shrubs.

Most of the roses, camellias and hydrangeas are of the variety known as "Old Blush," which began in 1956 when Catherine Fondren, daughter of the late Rosedown owner, decided to save Rosedown House and the famous garden around it. Today the garden offers a massive show of plants and shrubs.

which are unique among gardens of the South. Hydrangeas, which came into bloom in mid-May, include Hydrangea hortensis, Hydrangea opuloides, Hydrangea quercifolia, Oakleaf Hydrangea, and the rare and Hydrangea macrophylla tricolor, a jewel-like shrub of one dimension. Giant blue hydrangeas with great round blossoms stretch along the oak avenue at Rosedown from the orchard to the avenue court, and other paths in the North and South gardens. Many of these great shrubs were propagated from a red and white hydrangea which the owner near the old plantation house.

The most rare of the plants propagated from original plants found on the grounds in 1956 is the "hip" gardenia. Gardenia Fortuniana. These blossoms with three petals are rarely seen in gardens of today. They are not available on the market. They are popular because of their long-lasting and winter-blooming orange and are shaped like glowing lanterns. Other gardenias at Rosedown are Cape Jasmine, Gardenia grandiflora and Gardenia. Most of these shrubs are in the South Garden under the old house.

be set out at Rosedown. After building Rosedown Plantation House in 1834, Daniel and Martha Turnbull, a wealthy cotton planter and his wife, began developing magnificent gardens in the French style of the 17th century. Their roses were the finest of their day, and were purchased mainly in Philadelphia, New York, Vicksburg and New Orleans. Old roses planted by Martha Turnbull include Marechal Niel, a climbing noisette introduced by Pradel, and the Martha Washington, which was said to have been originated by George Washington and named for his mother.

The most unique of the roses propagated at Rosedown, from original plants, is the R. Roxburghi plena, which is also called the burr of chinaquapin rose in the South and chestnut rose in the North. At Rosedown these roses are used as a hedge.

Modern hybrid roses are at home at Rosedown too, including the rich, red European and the rosy, pink Betty Pryor.

The story of Rosedown, its house and 28 acres of gardens, is told in a book entitled "Reflections of Rosedown," which will be released soon. For information on Rosedown, write Rosedown, Drawer M, St. Francisville, La. 70775.

CALADIUMS, BLUE HYDRANGEAS, GARDENIAS AND ROSES create unique vistas in the summer garden of Rosedown Plantation and Gardens in St. Francisville, La. Many of the shrubs in the summer garden were propagated from original plants found on the grounds in 1956 when the late Catherine Fondren Underwood began the restoration of Rosedown. Rosedown is located on U.S. Highway 61 at Louisiana 10 on the Great River Road.

"1776" director brings something special to stage

By JOE PILET

When the curtain rises on "1776" Wednesday night at the Bay St. Louis Little Theatre, the talents and contribution of all of the cast, production crew and director will be enjoyed.

Many may not know, however, of the special background of the play's director Olive McKenna.

Most Hancock countians know Olive as an elementary school "marm." That she is, having taught altogether some 24 years!

Some recall her as Queen of the 1967 Carnival. All patrons of Little Theater know she has appeared in many productions and, indeed, she did receive a Louie Award for best supporting actress in "Barefoot in the Park," as well as Louies for best director in "How the Other Half Lives" (1974) and "Come Blow Your Horn" (1975).

Olive is also remembered as the attractive redhead who has served as entertainment director over the past 12 years for SJA and OLG Carnival Balls and as Choir Director and organist for Our Lady of the Gulf Church.

What isn't so widely known about Olive is how she came to be versatile, so energetic, and so willing to give unstintingly of her time and talents.

Born in Schenectady, New York and christened Olive Teresa Needle, little Olive showed an early inclination for drama. Through the years her parents encouraged, guided and directed. By the age of ten, Olive was on legitimate stage.

That was just the beginning of several years of radio and television work in such areas as New York's Station W.G.B. and W.R.G.B.

Sandwiched in between were studies of voice at the famous Juilliard School of music, piano, organ and choral music at Albany's Conservatory of Music, and the Gregorian Institute of Music in Toledo. This background possibly explains the success of musicals which she directed in Bay St. Louis including "Fantastics," "South Pacific," "Music Man" and "Camelot."

According to Olive music, drama, plays and directing are not "first place" in her list of priorities.

"My home comes first," Olive declared, who in private life is Mrs. John K. McKenna.

OLIVE MCKENNA

of Highland Drive. It is easy to believe home does come first for Olive. The house is attractive both inside and out, and furnished with impeccable taste.

After home, Olive places teaching as second in choice of service. She feels teaching is rewarding, and has always disciplined herself to use her time constructively. Then, and third on the list, comes her avocation -- drama, music, arts.

"Little Theater offers everyone interested a beautiful therapy," Olive declares.

Also, there is the joy of discovery of interdependence. No matter how talented, no director can succeed without the full support of technical director, production manager, and the willingness of all characters in the cast to work and practice when scheduled. Putting a play together is "everybody's business," according to Olive - and audience response is also very, very vital.

Discussing "1776" Olive said "It is easy to understand why this play is an award winning musical. People enjoy every moment of it from the delightful overture, right on through to the hilarious 'For God's Sake, John, Sit Down.' Including the intermission, the play will run about two and a half hours, and Olive believes the theater will be comfortable although it has no air conditioning. She hopes patrons will dress comfortably, and will realize that stage lights and costumes create heat and the 25 men and 2 women in the cast, as well as all the back-of-stage crews have given generously of time, talent, and energy in order to our locality a truly delightful experience.

"1776" will be offered to the public for four nights.

Incredible egg adds flavor to picnic lunch

The great outdoors is still the great outdoors, even if it's just the city park. And picnics in the great outdoors just seem to make any food taste better.

Take for example, Sunshine Portable Potato Salad. It's a delightfully different twist to potato salad with lots of goodies in it. But when you take it on a picnic, it just tastes so much better and more exciting than in the dining room.

Of course, eggs add flavor to practically anything, and no potato salad is complete without them. But then there are other exciting ingredients that stand out, like diced ham and celery. And when it's chilled and firm for the outing, it's difficult to refrain from "sampling" before the picnic.

Capture the outdoor egg in a new recipe. And take it soon to the wilderness of your choice.

POTATO SALAD

4-6 main dish servings
4 cups cubed, cooked and peeled potatoes (approx. 4-6 medium)
7 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 cup diced cooked ham
1 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped onion OR 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
1/2 cup chopped pimiento-stuffed olives
3/4 cup mayonnaise
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 teaspoons dry mustard
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 hard-cooked egg, wedged or sliced

In large bowl combine potatoes, chopped eggs, ham, celery, onion and olives. In small bowl blend remaining ingredients except egg until smooth. Gently but thoroughly fold mayonnaise mixture into potato mixture. Gently press into a 1 1/2 to 2-quart plastic container. If plastic container is not available, gently press mixture into foil-lined mixing bowl. Cover; chill until firm (approx. four hrs.). Carry to picnic in cooler to keep chilled.

To serve: unmold; garnish with egg wedges.

HARD-COOKED EGGS

Cover eggs in pan with enough water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Bring rapidly just to boiling. Turn off heat; if necessary remove pan from heat to prevent further boiling. Cover; let stand in hot water 15 minutes for large eggs - adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for other sizes. Cool eggs immediately and thoroughly in cold water - shells are easier to remove and you won't have a dark surface on yolks. To remove shell crackle by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell; then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell.

Physical examination - a step toward preventative medicine

By PATRICIA COUCH
Preventative medicine usually means an annual physical examination. How can you be sure you're getting the most for your money and not spending those hard-to-come-by dollars on services you don't really need? There is no standard definition of a physical exam, but the Life Extension Institute of New York has established some general guidelines.

The Institute says a physical exam can take from one hour to one day (or two or three days) and cost from $75 to as much as $300. If you are healthy and under 35, you can probably get away with an abbreviated physical which costs about $40. If you are under 40, you should be sure to get a chest X-ray, a blood pressure check, examination of the eyes, ears, nose, throat, mouth, neck, heart, lungs, abdomen, genitalia, skin, spine, bones, muscles, joints, lymph nodes, nervous system and rectum. Women should have a pelvic exam, Pap smear and breast exam.

You will probably want an electrocardiogram, pulmonary (lung) function test, vision and hearing tests, basic blood tests, urinalysis and review of personal and family medical history. Expect to pay up to $100 for this service. If you are over 40, you should be given a test for glaucoma, a visual exam of the lower bowel, and, for women, a mammogram. This will cost an extra $35 to $60. If your age, family history or symptoms suggest that you are in the high risk category for heart disease, you should also receive a cardiovascular risk analysis. This will probably include some sort of stress test such as hiking on an electronically operated treadmill or riding a special bicycle and add an extra $75 to your bill. The exam should also include updating of your immunizations and a legible record of the status of your protection against tetanus and polio. Don't overspend on this exam for unnecessary tests, and don't be over-charged because you don't know what the various aspects of a physical should cost. But don't cheat yourself either. Remember that preventative medicine could save you a lot of time, trouble and money in the long run.

Demo party co-chairman guests on ETV

Mississippi's co-chairman of the Democratic Party is guest when "A Conversation with Aaron Henry" airs at 6:30 p.m., Friday, June 18, and again, at 1 p.m. Sunday, June 20.

A production of the Mississippi Center for Educational Television, the program can be seen over ETV channels 19, Biloxi.

"Black is not just a color, but a state of mind," Henry tells his host, Hodding Carter III of Greenville, publisher of the Delta Democrat-Times. Henry says at first he felt that when people "learned better, they would do better," but that he later felt injustice toward blacks was not a question of ignorance but a question of malice.

Continuing his conversation with Carter about the history of the civil rights movement in Mississippi, Henry says that, in his opinion, the present situation in Mississippi indicates that "we are half-way there" in the struggle for equality of the races.

Currently serving as president of the Mississippi chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), Henry was founder and chairman of the Coahoma County branch of that organization in 1963.

A Clarksdale pharmacist by profession, he ran for Governor of Mississippi in a Freedom Vote in 1963.

Policy explained - Part IV

Dr. Pepper runs afoul,

Application fails to stand

Editor's Note:

We intend to complete our Policy Statement in one or two episodes. Now we are entering episode four and, as we write this Editor's note first, we do not know until we have finished whether or not each one will be the last.

To recap the recap for the fourth time, we started our recap by jovially telling of the Petevoughtian family, rocketed into our intended Rock Roll and Joust, and ran into a wall.

The reason for the heavy involvement was that in order to best explain why we are delayed in actual presentation of the Rock thing, we mentioned NOLTRICM Gertrude, the IRA, the bling of Dewey, Cheatham, and Howe, the engagement of Cliff, Craig and Gravel, and concluded with that memorable memory, the filing of "P" for Documents by Miss Dampen Dewey.

It is obvious, at least almost by now, that the recap is becoming as involved as the original mess, so it can safely be said that even with this recap of the recap it is almost impossible to get there from here. Better the reader purchase back issues, containing Parts I, II, and III of Policy, now we are told necessary prerequisites to successful mind retention.

THE PLOT THICKENS - PART IV

Most of our narrative last week concerned the business

ALL verbs and stuff by Neville R. Jacob

Dr. Pepper's application for employment, apart from missing statistics, turns out to be a bit bigger than Big. It surprises came when we discovered NOLTRICM Gertrude given as reference, and then could not locate any of our personnel involved in completion of section clearly marked, "Do not write below this line."

Front

All sorts of weird items came to light this week when we reviewed Dr. Pepper's application for employment. Apart from missing statistics, turns out to be a bit bigger than Big. It surprises came when we discovered NOLTRICM Gertrude given as reference, and then could not locate any of our personnel involved in completion of section clearly marked, "Do not write below this line."

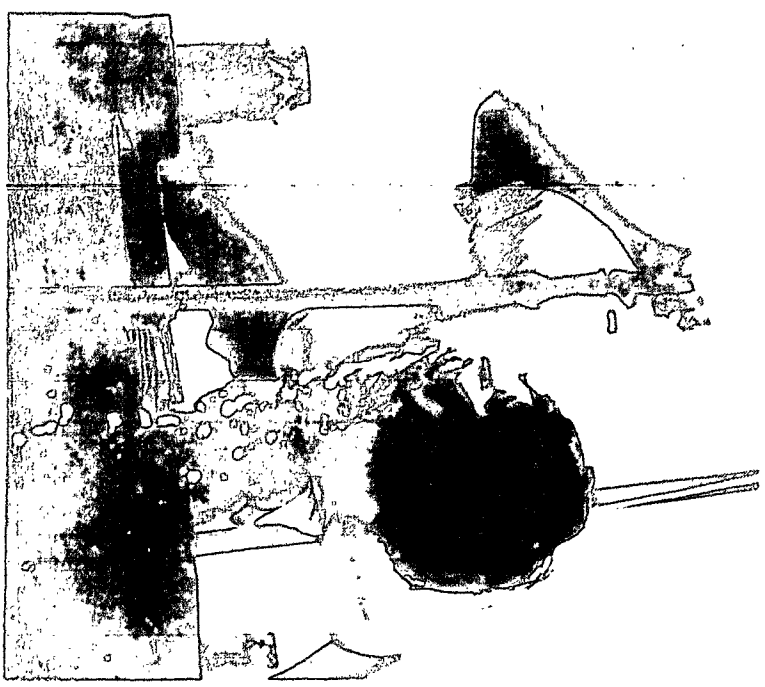

Back

unchallenged monopoly on decision as to which rocks finish up as building blocks, which are crushed for gold fish bowl gravel, or even worse, which are utilized for dam foundations (and thus never see the light of day again). Gertrude is indeed in the position of maintaining a heavy street of votes.

OUR FUTURE DIRECTION

We now know our hopes of salvation lay in a firm liaison with the Indigenous Rock of America (IRA) as nobody messes around with the IRA. Their attorneys, as we mentioned previously, are G.R. Amle and Q.U. Art, the AA for stoned rocks.

Miss Labat honored

Miss Inez Labat is to be honored Monday when the Hancock County Historical Society meets at 7:30 p.m., in the Civic Room of Gul National Bank.

A school teacher for many years, Miss Labat has been confined to a wheelchair for the last 10 years, since sustaining a stroke shortly after her retirement.

Norton Haas, society president, said yesterday the Miss Labat had donated complete library of books to the society for the use of its members and others doing research on this area.

He said the collection is to be put on display in the new county library following its official opening later this month.

An old-time pedal organ will be played at the meeting as part of the Show and Tell section of the program. Her members bring something of historical note to the meeting and demonstrate its operation or use.

The public is invited.

St. Rose remains undefeated in men's softball league

St. Rose maintained their grip on first place in the Men's Softball League this week with an 11-8 win over the Bay Angels on Thursday.

Don Smith went three for four at the plate. The leading hitter for the Angels was David Thompson who got two hits in three trips to the plate. In another makeup game Thursday, Ladner's trounced Little Italy 15-3. Vic Green and Dave Richardson were three for four at the plate to pace Ladner's. Walter Bagon collected a homerun in the fifth inning.

For Little Italy Henry Bonney and Wayman Carr went two for two. In other games last week, the Bay Angels held on to second place with a 10-6 win over Ladner's and St. Rose makeup game Tuesday. Oscar Thomas and Robert Henry both went three for three at the plate.

In the second game Tuesday Little Italy escaped an upset by St. Stephens in a 17-13 donkeybrook. Elmo Jacob had three homeruns in the game for St. Stephens.

In two games last Monday Little Italy coasted by the Sluggers 12-5 and the Over the Hill Gang edged the Railroad Station 10-9.

Henry Bonney was four for four at the plate for Little Italy. George Mayfield was three for four at the plate for Railroad Station and Wallace and Goodman had three hits in four ABs for Over the Hill.

FIELD THIS—Maria Peters appears to be giving the pitcher a dose of his own medicine in Parks and Playgrounds girls' softball. Actually Maria's grip accidentally loosened and no ill will was intended.

DID YOU SEE IT? Josh Hansel, Ricky Ladner, and Chris Crowder seem involved in confusion over the where ball is during Gulf National and Hancock Bank game.

Legion suffers first loss

Chasez keeps Rotary in the cellar

Richardson's three innings of shutout pitching and Donnie Strong's rbi single in the fifth pushed Coast Electric past American Legion 8-7 for Legion's first setback of the season. Scott Cox started for Coast Electric, yielding seven runs before being yanked in the fourth. Mike LaFontaine replaced him and Dwayne LaFontaine ripped two hits and a triple to lead Coast Electric at the plate. Kerry Geroux (3-1) was charged with the loss, walking five and fanning four. Alton Benoit went two for three with an rbi in Legion's cause. Coast Electric will attempt to rise to first place in a rematch with American Legion Sunday. The first game pits Rotary and Chasez Construction in the 4:30 p.m. opener.
